Jefferson Scholarship Overview

- The Jefferson Scholarship is a merit-based scholarship at the University of Virginia.
- Selection criteria: demonstrated excellence and potential in the areas of leadership, scholarship, and citizenship. Scholars receive the full cost of undergraduate attendance for eight semesters (~$160,000).
- A full enrichment program including: unpaid internship stipends, a study abroad experience, team-building program, leadership development, career mentoring, enrichment speakers, seed funding for ventures, and access to the JSF Network.
- No one may apply for a Jefferson Scholarship directly. A prospective Scholar must be nominated by his or her school (eligible schools may nominate one or two students per year from the senior class). Interest in the University of Virginia is not a factor considered in the selection process.
- 413 Virginia secondary school students were nominated in 2019-20. Overall 2292 students were nominated in the competition and 32 Scholars enrolled in the Class of 2024.

- 2021-22 Enrollees (On-Time) – Up to six core-courses completed after starting the 7th semester (and before full-time enrollment) will be used in the student's initial-eligibility certification, regardless of whether the student graduated on time or when the courses are completed (i.e., during the academic year or summer term).

Distance Learning & Pass/Fail Grades
